

Bird's-foot Trefoil

Lotus Corniculatus
Common

☐ Add

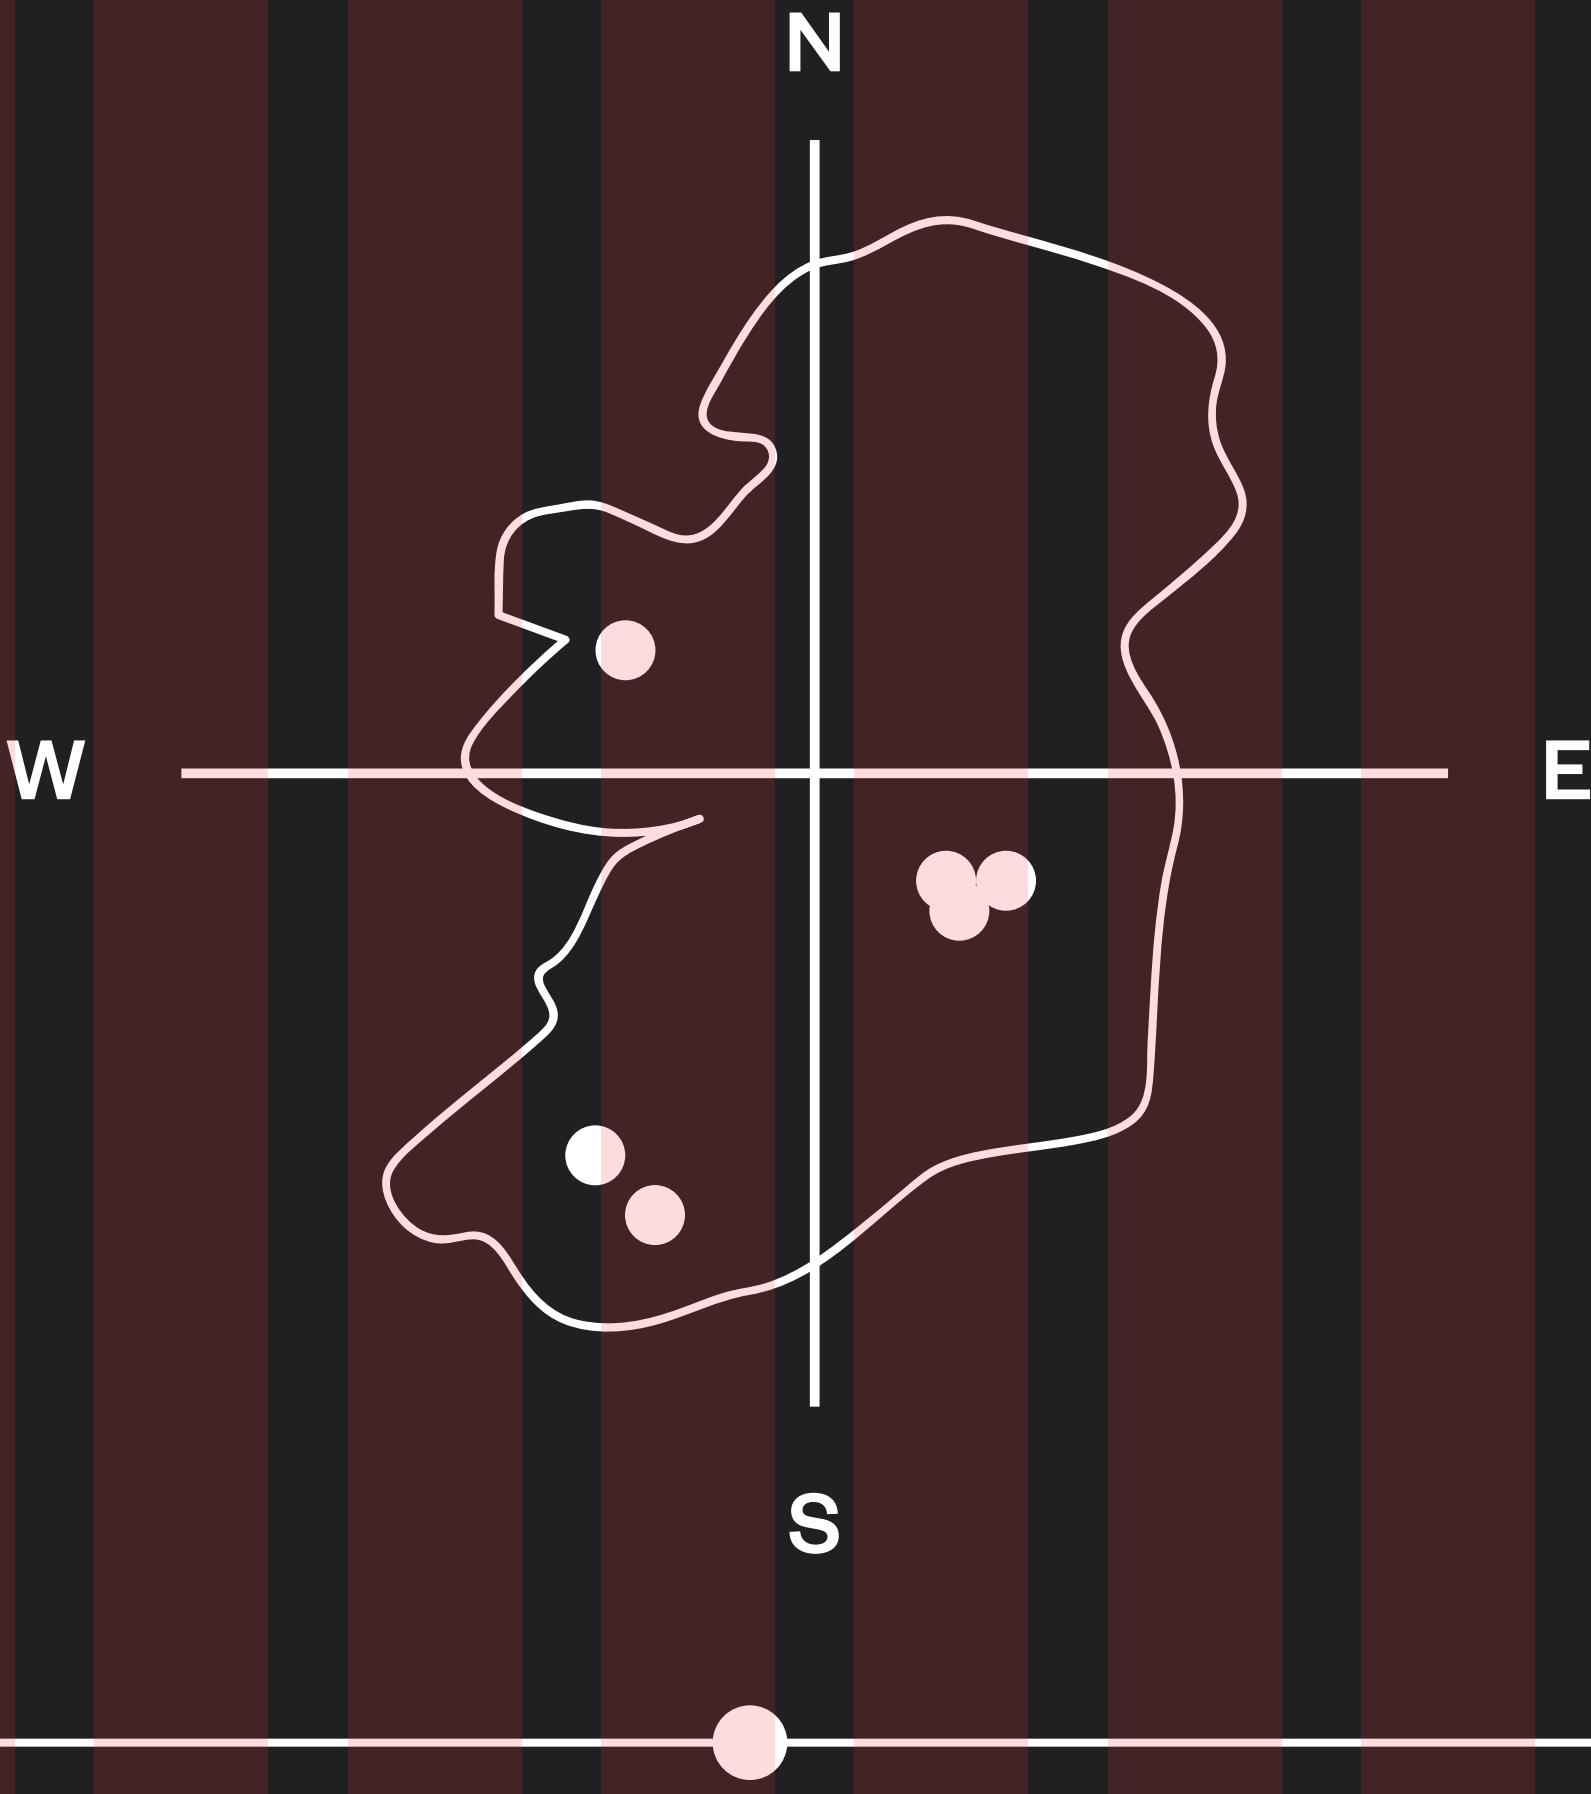

Archiving

This straggly annual wildflower is perhaps our most frequent Speedwell around the country. Found on bare soil, cultivated and waste ground, it is quite downy. Pretty bright blue flowers (8-12mm across) are borne solitarily on thin, sometimes reddish, stems which only reach to about 20cm high. The corolla has four lobes, the lower one being smaller and white, and it has two stamens. The hairy oval leaves are pale green with toothed margins. This lovely little flower blooms all year round and is a

View More

Distribution

2017

2018

Bird's-foot Trefoil is needed in your area

☐ Add

Return Archive

Space: 420px

Heading: 68px (centred) Grotesque

Sub Heading: 18px Mono

Space: 600px

Heading: 35px (centred) Grotesque

Illustration

Space: 600px

Text: 21px Grotesque

Space: 600px

Dropdown: 21p Grey with Underline 1px Grotesque

Space: 120px

Space: 600px

Heading: 35px (centred) Grotesque

Illustration 600px

Text: 21px Grotesque

Add Button (non Functional 18px

Return to Main Archive: 35px underlines (centred) Gro-